

Sir Lionel Poncegraf's Fief

Sir Lionel comes from a fairly newly established landed family, with his grandfather being granted this manorial fief by the Duke of Basher City. He is a pompous but good-natured man, and genuinely cares about the amount of money his fief makes, the luxuries he can extort from his ungrateful peasants, and the number of women he can seduce, despite being married to a distant kinswoman of the reigning Duke of Basher City.

Needless to say, the gallows sees a lot of use, and the 'natives are restless'.